
Film Name:

Actors:

Setting:

Plot: This part provides description of the movie within approximately 15 sentences.

Historical Background: In this section, answer such questions as, did the film present a real or made-up story? How good were historical events represented in the movie? Does the movie tell about people and some real-life events? Is there any connection between the movie and history course?

Evaluation section: Provide evaluation of the movie based on its weak and strong points. It is not enough to just say that the movies was good or bad and you liked it or not. You should use critical approach and analyze each point you highlight. Think about the following things: How good did the actors play? Were the events in the movie logically connected? What could be done better?

